Why are we focusing on families, and why now?

Families are the core unit in our society, serving as a source of support for all its members. For people with intellectual and developmental disabilities (I/DD) the role of family is unique, and often central in the support and care provided across the lifespan. Family members play key roles in identifying and securing opportunities for their family members to participate within their community in meaningful ways and ensuring access to self determined lives. Parents and other family members of people with I/DD often provide medical, behavioral, financial, and other daily supports beyond what most families provide. Yet, the vital role of families is not fully recognized and supported in disability policy and practice.

Today, there are more than 4.7 million American citizens with an intellectual or developmental disability. Most, 75%, of these individuals live in their communities without any formal disability services. They rely on their families for varying levels of support to have the lives they want to have. Of the 25% that are receiving services, over half live with their families, and in some state, that number is as high as 80%.

In 2011, a group of national and state leaders in the disability field came together at Wingspread Conference Center to provide direction and guidance for the shift to focus on families. One of the recommendations was to develop and fund a National Supporting the Family Initiative. The initiative is to gain consensus on issues related to supporting families at both the national and state level, that would inform practices and identify policies for advancing family supports. This initiative would also focus on working together to further define and build collaborations within and outside the disability system for supporting families across the lifespan, ensuring that community integration is the standard of all the work. This initiative is our Community of Practice.

———supportstofamilies.org———
The Goal of Supporting Families

The overall goal of supporting families, with all of their complexity, strengths and unique abilities is so they can best support, nurture, love and facilitate opportunities for the achievement of self-determination, interdependence, productivity, integration, and inclusion in all facets of community life for their family members.

Supporting people with disabilities to live and fully participate in their communities throughout their lives has emerged as a fundamental right and consideration in disability policy and practices. Because of the role that families continue to play in the lives of their family members, future policies and practices must reflect the family as part of the system of support.

Supporting the family is defined as a set of strategies targeting the family unit but that ultimately benefit the individual with I/DD. Supporting the family strategies are intended to assist family members who have a key role in the provision of support and guidance of their family member with I/DD to address the emotional, physical and material well-being of the entire family. Strategies must be designed, implemented and funded in a manner directed by the family unit. They should be flexible, comprehensive, and coordinated.

From the National Agenda on Supports to Families, 2011

GOAL

Individual
Will achieve self-determination, interdependence, productivity, integration, and inclusion in all facets of community life

Families
Will be supported in ways that maximize their capacity, strengths, and unique abilities to best nurture, love and support the individual to achieve their goal

“Handicap This!”
Tim Wambach has been empowering and entertaining audiences for the last 7 years. Tim’s story starts in 2001, when he was hired to be Mike Berkson’s aide. Mike was a 12 year old boy living with cerebral palsy. Over the years, they shared many experiences and overcame many obstacles. In 2010, they decided to turn their relationship into a universal message of inclusion and acceptance that they have shared for over 100,000 people. Their story has been featured in over 250 newspapers across the globe. Tim’s life mission is to help others see the person and not a wheelchair or disability.

“The Journey to who I am and who I want to be”
Hello my Name is Clancey Caroline Hopper. I am the 27 year old daughter of Wayne and Barbra Hopper of Antioch, TN. I was diagnosed with Williams syndrome when I was in the first grade which is a genetic condition that causes heart issues and learning disabilities among other things! I am so thankful to have such a strong support system of people who truly want me to be successful in life and love me unconditionally. I currently work at the Grand Ole Opry. I love country music!

“2017 National Policy Update.”
The Arc of the United States, Washington, D.C.,
Nicole Jorwic is the director of rights policy at The Arc, a national community-based organization advocating for and serving people with intellectual and developmental disabilities and their families. Prior to joining The Arc policy team Nicole served as Senior Policy Advisor and Manager of the Employment First Initiative in Illinois, where she collaborated to draft a statewide strategic plan to make Employment First the reality in Illinois, worked with other state officials to work on the states HCBS transition plan, and worked within the department of human services to break down silos for better quality of service for individuals with disabilities. Prior to that appointment, Nicole served as the CEO/President of the Institute on Public Policy for People with Disabilities where she continued the Institute’s mission to improve the lives of people with disabilities and assisted the leadership of the state of Illinois in developing public policy driven best practices in residential and employment services.

Nicole is also an accomplished special education attorney with a focus on transition-aged youth. In addition, she has written several articles and developed trainings in areas such as transition and employment services for individuals with disabilities, early intervention, special education law and policy, and first responder training for police officers responding to individuals with disabilities in crisis situations. Nicole has also served as a public policy consultant with Autism Speaks, working on issues related to integrated housing and competitive employment. Nicole received her JD and Child and Family Law Certificate, from Loyola University Chicago. She received her BS from the University of Illinois. Nicole is also a sibling, her brother Chris is 26 and has autism.
The Arc of Kentucky
Annual Awards - 2017

The Arc of Kentucky Annual Awards to be presented in 2017 at the annual conference in Louisville on March 16-17, 2017 and will be given to the nominated individuals who best fit these descriptions: These awards emphasize the importance of recognizing the ABILITIES of people with intellectual and/or developmental disabilities, and the outstanding service delivered by many volunteers and professionals in the fields of intellectual and related disabilities.

Carl D. Perkins Service Award - is presented to an individual who has made notable contributions continuing over an extended period of time to promote and enhance the quality of services to individuals with intellectual and other related disabilities.

Gayla Peach Advocacy Award - is presented to an individual who has made a significant contribution by speaking out and providing leadership to secure or maintain the rights, services, and supports for individuals with intellectual and other related disabilities and their families.

Ronald J. Cutter Professional Service Award - is presented to a professional who has provided significant support and services that have contributed to the development of individuals with intellectual and other related disabilities.

Susy Riffe Memorial Award for Achievement - is presented to a Kentuckian, age 25 or older, who has an intellectual disability and has made a positive contribution through participation at work, in the home, and in the community. In addition to a plaque, the recipient of the Susy Award receives a $100 U.S. Savings Bond.

Organization Service Award - is presented to an organization that has provided outstanding service to The Arc.

Membership Award - is presented to the local Arc Chapter with the greatest membership increased during the previous calendar year. (If the largest number and largest percent increases are not achieved by the same chapter, two awards will be given.)

Each nomination must be described in a letter detailing the nominee’s qualifications and explaining the nominator’s relationship or extent of acquaintance. Typically nominations are made by parents, friends, fellow workers, or service providers or other professionals in fields involving intellectual and other disabilities. A letter of nomination may be sent at any time. For the 2017 awards, the letter must be received in The Arc Office by February 15, 2017 by U.S. mail, the letter should go to The Arc’s Award Selection Committee, 706 E. Main Street, Suite A, Frankfort, KY 40601, by fax (502) 875-5226, or by e-mail to shelley@arcofky.org.

The Arc’s Award Selection Committee will review the nominations and make recommendations for approval to The Arc Board. Recipients’ names will be announced at the Annual meeting to be held on March 16-17th in Louisville, KY. The awards will be given on Thursday evening, March 16th at the Awards Banquet.
